Overview:

Your 2025-2026 financial aid eligibility was determined based upon 2023 income data reported on your Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) or California Dream Act Application (CADAA) and the resulting Student Aid Index (SAI). If you have experienced a loss of household income since 2023 due to "special circumstances," the Family Contribution Appeal Form may be used to document changes in income, such as financial circumstances that may affect the availability of family resources for your educational expenses. Personal expenses for lifestyle choices and consumer goods (e.g. credit card/loan payments) are not considered unusual or special circumstances. The appeal process may result in a change to data elements reported on your financial aid application resulting in a change to your SAI. If your appeal is approved, any changes to your award will be effective for the 2025-2026 aid year. The Financial Aid Office's decision is made on a case-by case basis, will be final, and cannot be appealed to the U.S. Dept. of Education.

Instructions:

Complete this form only if your (or your parent(s), if you are a dependent student) income will be less in 2024, 2025, or 2026 than the 2023 income reported on your 2025-2026 application. IMPORTANT: If the tax information reported on the FAFSA or CADAA was underestimated, submissions and evaluation of the Family Contribution Appeal Form may result in a decrease in financial aid.

Dependent students must submit documents for both student and parent(s).

Independent students must submit documents for both student and spouse (if married).

1. Detailed Statement.

On a separate typed document, the student must provide a detailed statement that includes the following:

- The reason you are requesting a professional judgment.
